OLD-TIMERS ASSOC. FORMED IN TOWN

On Tuesday of last week, 63 old-timers of the Wainwright district sat down to a splendid banquet in the Wainwright hotel, to which all did full justice, and many and pleasant were the reminiscences which were indulged in by the crowd in attendance.

At the close of the banquet, Mayor Dr. Middleman was asked to take the chair and call the meeting to order, and following this, Mr. E. Goddard moved that they proceed with the formation of the Wainwright Old-Timers' association. This was seconded by Mr. D. Davidson and carried. It was resolved that all persons who have lived within a radius of 25 miles from Wainwright for the past 25 years should be eligible for membership in the association, and that the fee for membership for 1937 be set at 25c for gentlemen, with the ladies being admitted free.

Nov. 20-21 Set For Youth Congress

The value of united effort on the part of young people throughout Alberta will be clearly demonstrated at a Provincial Congress to be held in Calgary Nov. 20 and 21. This association of representatives of various youth organizations will be especially effective in view of the fact that the Youth Rehabilitation plans, now so successfully initiated, will be thoroughly discussed and explained. Mr. J. H. Ross, Alberta director of the plans, will be one of the principle speakers at the Congress.

A large representation from rural communities is desirable, so that farm young people may bring their own contributions to this young movement for training and security.

The Canadian Youth Congress Movement may justly feel proud of the fact that as a result of its efforts in pressing for a discussion of youth problems, the Youth Congress, members of the Youth Congress, Denton Massey, Conservative, Paul Martin, Liberal and T. C. Douglas, C.C.F., presented several resolutions on the subject of youth employment, and secured the attention of the government to the extent that at the end of the spring session of the House of Commons, a budget appropriation of $1,000,000 for youth rehabilitation was announced.

The Calgary Youth Council, as well as other Councils across Canada is co-operating closely with government and private agencies for the efficient administration of the rehabilitation schemes recently announced in the press. The continuation of these fine projects for youth re-establishment is in a very real sense dependent on the interest and application displayed by young people who should therefore plan to send delegates from their organizations to the Alberta Youth Congress.

Further details may be secured by writing Miss G. A. Gillander, Secretary, Provisional Committee, Alberta Youth Congress, 1926-54 St. West, Calgary, Alberta.

Mrs. W. Mackay Jr., is in the city this week for a few days.

"On The Avenue" Coming to Theatre

"On The Avenue" the new picture at the Elite is a musical romance-drama, but, unlike the usual run of such pictures, it is motivated by a sound story. In contrast to this quality, production detail takes on the character of an elaborate vaudeville or revue.

As principals in the revue, Blake and Mona present a sketch ridiculing Mimi Caraway, world's richest girl, her father the Commodore and her publicity mad explorer sailor. Since enraged, Mimi plans to play the hide off Blake, but falls in love with him.

Upon that framework is hung the singing by Powell and Alice Faye. The Ritz Brothers burlesque a Russian classic and are in and out of the film for frequent demonstrations of their clowning. The story is also the occasion for many live antics on the part of Cora Witherspoon, to vary her complex to be a Cossack dancer with the ambition to be a flying trapeze performer, a bit of funny business in which she is finely assisted by Ruman.

An effectively temped snow that varies the appeal of romantic interest and the charm of good music with exciting and amusing action, it moves at a rapid pace.

Motorists Still Pour In Taxes

The oil industry will be forced to collect another $500,000,000 during the next two years from the motorist public to pour into the United States federal treasury.

The president has signed a bill extending for two years the federal taxes on gasoline and lubricating oils, as well as the tax on transportation by pipeline and the import taxes on virtually all petroleum products.

It was estimated that the income from the gasoline tax of one cent a gallon would produce $204,000,000 during the current fiscal year, and revenue from the tax for the next fiscal year in all likelihood will surpass that.

The levy of four cents a gallon on lubricating oil is estimated at $33,300,000 each of the two years it has been collected.

On top of those taxes on petroleum products, the tax was extended on tires and tubes, a large part of the revenue from which will be collected at the service stations.

These are big bills for the motorists to pay. In the first 4 1/2 years of its existence, up to December 31, 1936, the federal gasoline tax produced revenue of $772,639,010.

REMEMBRANCE

NOVEMBER 11th, 1937

"Twas nineteen years ago today,
When guns of war were bidden "Cease",
In gratitude we celebrate
This anniversary of Peace.

Oh, heroes of the boundless deep,
Soldiers of Flanders' Field, sleep on;
Our love enshrined in memory
Burns high, is ever burning on.

Ye men who wield the nation's power,
God grant that you may always heed,
That covenant,—"If ye break faith,
We shall not sleep, in Flanders' Field.

They died for Honor, Freedom, Peace,
But their flaming "Torch" must never die,
They fling it back in trust to you;
With pride, 'Be yours to hold it high.

God, guard the Souls of those who died,
Ease, Thou, the yearning, sad despair,
Of lonely hearts, of those who mourn;
We ask of Thee, Oh God, in prayer.

M. Josephine Turner.

Maurice Dupre Honored by Chums

Last Wednesday evening, friends and school mates gathered in the L.O.O.F. hall to bid farewell to Maurice Dupre who leaves this week to make his home in Edmonton.

Messrs. William Coleman and Keith Parkhurst very capably laid the roles of hosts for the evening.

Dancing was the main item of entertainment with novelty numbers being called at intervals throughout the party. Music was provided by Messrs. M. Stott and I. Lustmore and Messrs. B. Wallace and H. Ward.

Around eleven o'clock all sat down to a sumptuous lunch served under the direction of Miss W. Bruncker, following which a duet tap dance was given by Misses Eileen Graham and Roberta Snyder which was heartily applauded.

The party broke up in the early hours of the morning after a wishing Mr. Dupre every success in his new surroundings.

Splendid Radio Program Repeats

As will be seen from our advertising columns, the radio series "Canada 1937" which scored such success last season is to be renewed starting November 5th. This season, this most spectacular of Canadian broadcasts will be heard Friday evening at 10:00 p.m. EST.

Outstanding commentators under the guidance of Vernon Bartlett will again speak from Europe—an interviewer in Canada probing for answers to the questions of the "man in the street".

Lionel Shapiro, Canadian correspondent in New York, will speak from N.B.C. Studios, relating such latest happenings of the Gay White Way as are of interest to Canadian listeners.

A new technique will be introduced in the talks on Canada to make the very pulse of the nation audible to listeners throughout the country. Mr. Walter Bowles will broadcast from a different locality each week, telling of that locality's contribution to Canada's progress and interviewing "nation builders" who make that progress possible.

Yet another outstanding feature of the program will be the music—every selection will be especially arranged for the large orchestra and choir that is now in rehearsal.

In sponsoring these broadcasts—to be again produced by Victor George-Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Limited, is bringing a new experience to Canadian listeners. These Friday evening programs are live demonstrations of the fact that the Canadian broadcasting is equal to the challenge for something new and spectacular.

NOTICE

A General Meeting of the Wainwright Curling Club will be held in the Town Hall, Wainwright, at 8:00 p.m. on Friday next, when business connected with the coming season's activities will be discussed. Everybody welcome. Be on time.

New Business Place Opened This Week

After 13 years of service to the people of Hardisty and district, Mr. L. Hallett, has closed his butcher business at that point and along with his son, has opened a modern, up-to-date meat and grocery business on the corner of Main and Fourth in Wainwright.

Mr. Hallett, who has been in this business for many years, assures his patrons of first-class meats at all times, kept under the most sanitary conditions, and we welcome this new tradesman to our midst.

Elite Holds Annual Hallowe'en Dance

To the strains of the local orchestra a merry time was spent at the Elite theatre on Friday evening, when the annual Hallowe'en dance was staged by the management.

Although the crowd was not as large as in former years, it was equally as lively and the large number of novelties which were distributed during the evening added much to the enjoyment.

Following the supper interval, dancing was resumed and continued till the early hours and the Elite are justified in saying that another Hallowe'en was fittingly observed.

CARD OF THANKS

Our deepest thanks are extended to the railroad employees and to others for all their kindnesses to Mr. Beckett during his recent illness.

MR. & MRS. A. BECKETT.

Miss R. Callas returned on Sunday from a short visit to the city.

The Wainwright Star Passes Another Milestone

With this issue The Star enters upon its thirtieth year of business in Wainwright, the first issue being published on November 4th, 1908, with the full support of every business and professional man here at that time.

During this long period of years it has always been the highest endeavor to produce a newspaper which should be representative of Wainwright and the whole community, as well as a real credit to the editor and staff; and although we leave it to our readers and friends to judge the measure of success we have attained we feel proud of The Star of today as a weekly newspaper ranking second to none in its field and one with a Dominion-wide reputation which has secured valuable prizes in competition with the whole of Canada.

The past year has been a very trying one in many respects, especially financially, and we are of the opinion that the advertising patronage accorded us has not been as generous as might be reasonably expected, while (owing no doubt to the strenuous times) subscriptions have lagged somewhat in being renewed. However, notwithstanding this short-aged lack of support, we have cheerfully carried on in the full spirit of optimism hoping that business conditions would improve and that things would eventually right themselves.

The past year brought a certain measure of progress and prosperity throughout the business world following the great depression, and we believe that the coming year will see this prosperity greatly increased for all. The Star's policy has always been to give everyone a square deal, and it will continue to be our aim to carry on with this same policy in mind, maintaining the highest business standards and improving our publication whenever patronage and financial support will enable us to do so.

No review of The Star's past would be complete without an expression of our full gratitude to our supporters, and we do indeed thank our subscribers, advertisers and all others for their goodwill, and for the business given the newspaper and its job-printing department. With a continuance (and we hope an increase) of this support and patronage, we shall do our utmost to serve the town and district even still better. One object The Star has tried to fulfill faithfully over these many years, has been to boost LOCAL business. If each and all of us will continue to do so how much better our whole community might become.

That thought, our re-iterated thanks to all, and our promise of the best we can give at all times—these are our birthday greetings on this, our twenty-ninth anniversary!

LOCAL PEDAGOGUE JOINS BENEDICTS

The marriage of Margaret Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lammie, and Mr. Hedy Abbott, son of Mr. A. Abbott and the late Mrs. Abbott, of Beverly, took place at the Highlands United church, Edmonton, on Saturday, Rev. J. W. Smith officiating.

Wearing a period gown of coronation blue taffeta, a large picture hat and silver slippers, her arms filled with roses and lily-of-the-valley, the bride made a lovely picture as she entered the church on the arm of her father.

Bureau of Relief Makes Changes

The following communication from the provincial bureau of relief has been sent us and as it makes some drastic changes is well worthy of close perusal:

During the year 1937 fair crops have been produced in large portions of the Province and the prices received therefor equal to, if not greater than, those received during the average years prior to 1930, and in view of this, Municipalities must be prepared to assume full responsibility for their indigents, including those who are unemployed.

It felt that the time has arrived when the individual must depend upon his own efforts to provide for himself and his family. This can be done if the individual would make a sustained effort and realize that the responsibility of looking after him no longer rests with his tax-paying neighbor.

The circular continued. It is not the wish of the Province at this time to withdraw all unemployment relief or agricultural assistance, but it is the intention of the Province to drastically reduce their grant and it will, hereafter, only contribute to applications for assistance where a complete report definitely indicates justification.

Municipalities, it states that consider they have a relief problem which they are financially unable to provide for, may make application to the Province for assistance. To such applications must be attached a statement of the financial position and information given as to what action they have taken to have those requiring relief make provision for themselves and accept employment when available.

It says "Municipalities must insist that the persons who are given help must work out the full amount of relief received, as a contribution to the taxpayers of the district who are contributing towards the payment of such relief."

It is considered at this time that in the event of relief being required in some districts the rates previously in effect can be greatly reduced as there is no excuse for any individual residing in an area where crops and gardens were produced in not making provision for his vegetables which are a great contribution to a man's subsistence. There may be cases where a man was unable to plant a garden for himself but the lack of vegetables on this account may be easily overcome by the individual exchanging work with his neighbor who has a surplus supply.

The notification comes from A. A. MacKenzie, Bureau of Relief and Public Welfare.

Mrs Wallace, Pres. Library Association

At a well-attended meeting with Principal M. Meade in the chair, held in the Town Hall on Monday night last, plans were laid for the establishing of a public library in Wainwright. The excellent turn-out for this meeting augurs well for the future success of the Library Association organized. The following executive was elected:

Honorary-President—Mayor Dr. Middleman.
President—Mrs. H. C. Wallace.
Vice-President—Mrs. M. C. Good.
Secretary-treasurer—Mrs. F. E. Stevens.
Mrs. W. Clark, Rev. T. E. Armstrong and Mr. Meade were appointed as additional committee members.

Mrs. Wallace and Mrs. J. A. MacKenzie were chosen to interview the Town Council with a view to obtaining accommodation for the projected library.

Unanimously passed were votes of thanks to the Town Council for the use of the hall, and to The Wainwright Star for publicity given the meeting.

During the course of the meeting there was a comprehensive discussion of the problems likely to be met with by the executive.

WEDDING BELLS

MURRAY-JONES
The home of the bride's parents at Heath was the scene of a quiet wedding on Saturday last at 3 p.m., when Oliver Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, became the bride of Donald Earle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Murray.

The bride was attended by her sister Miss Delys Jones and Mr. Stanley Murray acted as best man for his brother.

Following the ceremony which was performed by Rev. T. E. Armstrong, a delicious dinner was served to a few relatives and friends.

The young couple will reside on the groom's farm in the Greenhills district.

WEAR-EBERN
On Monday morning last the nuptials were celebrated between Miss Grace Ebbert and Mr. Tony Wear, both of Wainwright, the ceremony being conducted by Rev. G. Maguire.

Following a short honeymoon the happy couple will take up residence on the former McQuaker farm south of town.

MOORE-ARMSTRONG
Rev. T. E. Armstrong officiated at the marriage of Miss May Armstrong to Mr. Wm. G. Moore on Wednesday last at the United church manse, both of the contracting parties coming here from Vermilion.

The young couple left on the evening train for Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., on Saturday.

Year's Funniest Football Musical

Actually "Pigskin Parade", the Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday picture at the Elite is a campus musical comedy, with a funny topical football twist.

A mistake made by Yale's publicity director, in inviting a tank town Texas college to send its football team to the Bowl for a game, is the reason for the comedy, music, dancing, frivolity and excitement. It brings Jack Haley, ludicrously dominated by wife Patky Kelly, into the picture as coach of Texas State University. The Yack Club Boys come in with four specialties and are continually present in the action. Dixie Dunbar sings and dances with Anthony Martin, leader of the college band.

Somebody thought that there must be a suggestion of drama in the story so campus vamp Atkins Judge almost breaks the heart of star passer Erwin and nearly drives him from from school. Patky Kelly fixed this up, however, by arranging a date for the vamp and Haley, which culminates in Haley getting a bump on the head and Miss Judge being steered back to Erwin.

The whole essence of the film is lively fun, colored with music and dancing. Everything is so blatantly treated that anyone will find difficulty in counting the laughs.

TODAY & TOMORROW

by Frank Parher Stockbridge

SEA. Men have never known much about the bottom of the sea. Perhaps science will never find a way to explore the ocean's floor and map all of its mountains and valleys, but new discoveries are being made all the time.

The latest of these is that the bottom of the sea has hundreds of deep canyons, or cliffs in the rocks which form the body of the earth, some of them as long and as wide as the Grand Canyon of the Colorado River. There isn't any way to account for these open valleys except by guesswork. Scientists are trying to make the most plausible guesses.

The guess which seems most likely to be true is that almost all the parts of the globe now covered by water were once dry land. The waters were frozen into ice-caps, miles high, over the two poles of the earth. As the sun grew hotter and the ice began to melt, enormous rivers flowed forth and gouged out deep channels for themselves. But in the course of millions of years so much of the ice turned to water that it filled all the lowlands, creating what is now the ocean's floor. Maybe that's true. It sounds interesting, anyway.

AGE of Earth. The age of the Earth is one of the questions to which men of science are ceaselessly trying to find the answer. Their general belief is that our planet is from two thousand to three thousand millions of years old, and that life has existed on it for more than two million.

Half a million years ago there were palm trees growing in northern Greenland. Then the climate changed and that whole northern hemisphere was covered with ice a couple of miles thick. Man and all other animals had to move toward the Equator as the ice advanced. Then the ice melted and man moved North again. Three times that has happened. The Third Ice Age has not yet ended.

Every century the earth gets warmer and more of the polar ice melts and the northern regions become more habitable. A thousand years from now our grandchildren of the thirtieth generation may pick oranges in Canada and go to the beaches of Hudson Bay for a warm winter vacation.

PICTURES easier to take. I have been an amateur photographer all my life. I made my first camera when I was sixteen. There isn't anything much more fun than taking pictures, and it never was so easy for anybody and everybody to take good pictures as it is today. The latest cameras will take pictures almost in the dark. Indeed, by the use of the new infra-red rays, photographs can be made where there is no light at all, so far as the unaided eye can determine. The new flashlight bulbs make it possible to get pictures at any hour of the day or night.

By the use of pictures, newspapers and magazines are much more interesting today than they used to be when I was a young man. The old Chinese saying that one picture is worth ten thousand words may not be literally true, but it is a way of saying that we learn through our eyes easier than through our ears. I think the young folks of today know a lot more than did those of my generation, they see so many pictures, in newspapers, magazines and the movies, showing them how the world and its people look and act.

MEAT to stay high. Twenty-five years ago I went out into the cattle country of the West to find out why porterhouse steak in New York had gone up to 32 cents a pound. I wrote an article in which I predicted that it would keep on going up. A couple of weeks ago anyone who wanted porterhouse steak in New York had to pay 90 cents a pound for it.

The answer to the rising cost of meat is simple. The law of supply and demand is at work. The drought of two or three ago are beginning to have their inescapable effect on consumer prices. It takes on the average, three years to grow a beef steak. There was not enough breeding stock left in the cattle country after the drought, to produce a normal crop of marketable steers for this year. More people want beef; there is less beef available; hence the high prices.

I don't believe we will ever see cheap beef again. It takes a lot of capital to raise beef cattle, and a long wait for returns. In the old days of the open range beef was cheap. Now the range country has been fenced in, and the cost of cattle raising will never go down again.

BOOKS an author's gamble. I have just finished a little book. I have done little else for the past five months but work on that book. It will be published in December and then, if enough people buy copies of it, I'll begin to get my wages for the time I spent on writing it. If a whole lot of people buy the book well enough to buy it, I may get better than wages for my time.

Once in a while someone writes a book which becomes a "best seller," but only once in a while. For every "The Wind," which has earned over half a million dollars for the woman who wrote it, there are hundreds of books published which do not sell enough copies to cover the author's living costs for the time spent in writing them. It is impossible for anyone to predict that any book will make money for its author. Often the ones which make the big money are books which nobody expected the public to like. That is one of the reasons why the business of writing for a living is so exciting.

FALL AND EARLY WINTER APPLES

McIntosh. King of all apples. An attractive-looking red apple, with excellent flavour. Neither acid nor sweet. Best time to use—September 25th to March 31st. Many are excellent cookers. They cook down soft, and are light and fluffy. They are specially good for pies, appleauce, etc. They are also excellent dessert apples.

Wagner. A flat type, red, or red-tinged apple of fair size. Best time to use—November 15th to January 31st. Wagners are good keepers, and good cookers. They do not cook as soft as the Macs, but are specially good for baking.

Winter Bananas. In the Pancy or Extra Fancy grades, this is a very attractive yellow apple, with red or bluish cheek. The large sizes are used freely in hotels and restaurants for baking.

Best time to use—November 15th to January 31st. This is a cooking apple rather than a dessert apple.

Grimes Golden. As the name would indicate, it has a greenish colour, usually running to the smaller sizes. Best time to use—November 15th to February 15th. These are good keepers and are good all round apples. They are excellent as dessert apples, and are quite good cookers. These apples are non-acid, and are specially advised for infants, because they do not discolour as other apples do.

Delicious. The name describes the flavour of this variety. The colour is a rich red. It is easily recognised by its unique shape, which is somewhat long, with five distinct points at the calyx end. Best time to use—November 1st to March 31st.

These apples are excellent dessert apples. They may be cooked, but extra time should be allowed. They are sweet, non-acid apples. People with whom apples do not agree should try the non-acid varieties.

AN ESSAY ON WHEAT

We have received an "essay", reprinted as below:

Wheat is a seed that is planted and grown in the West, to keep the producer broke and the buyer crazy; the protein varies in content and the man who can guess the nearest strength of the protein is called a wheat grader by the public and something else by the farmer.

The price of wheat is determined at primary markets and goes up when you have sold, and down when you have bought.

A group of farmers sent a man to Edmonton to watch the wheat market and after a few days deliberations wired them to this effect: "Some think it will go down, and some think it will go up. I do too. Whatever you do will be wrong; act at once."

Wheat is planted in the spring, mortgaged in the summer, and frozen in the fall.

October was designated as the "turkey moon" by the Natchez Indian tribe.

Working as usual on our 120th Birthday

One hundred and twenty years ago there were only seven of us working on the staff of the Bank—a cashier, an accountant, a paying teller, a second teller, a discount clerk, a second bookkeeper, and a porter—that was the entire staff. Today we are more than 6000, in more than 500 Branches, all working to render modern, experienced banking service.

Our Bank's career has been inseparably woven into the career of the nation and every part of it. Founded in 1817, the Bank at once became a financial pathfinder for Canada's pioneers. Through all the intervening, eventful, growing years of Canadian life, our Bank has kept strong and efficient—by pursuing a policy of safety for depositors and by keeping our services always abreast of modern conditions.

In times of expansion and depression, in the best and worst of economic conditions; through peace and wars, panics and political upheavals, Canadians have learned to rely upon the unwavering safety and banking assistance of the Bank of Montreal. Older than the Dominion itself, yet young as the latest sound business enterprise of Canada, we are working as usual on our 120th Birthday.

Carrying the sick six miles on stretchers through blizzards and down mountain trails is all part of the day's work with Mrs. Mary Breckenridge, director of the Frontier Nursing Service in the Kentucky mountains. Her nurses ride horseback carrying medical supplies in their saddlebags and they cover a territory of 1,000 square miles in which there is no railway and only twenty-four miles of gravel highway. The Pioneer Nursing Service has been established ten years, during which time more than 2,000 mothers have been aided in childbirth.

What is said to be the most complete collection of biographies of famous women in history and to be found in New York is owned by Miss Rosaline Greene, whose archives are called upon by persons all over the country. Collecting this material is a hobby with Miss Greene who is well known to radio audiences.

Miss Lillian D. Wald, founder of the Henry Street Settlement, New York, recently celebrated her seventh birthday.

Well known as a "suffrage child" is Mrs. Dana Converse Backus, daughter of Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, one of the most active of the women who worked for enfranchisement twenty years ago. As a consequence of her childhood environment, she has become an eternal reformer, though she spends quite a lot of her time writing poetry. Recently she has published a book of verse called "Traveler on Earth".

When it comes to the number of eggs you want to use to a pie, that depends on the mission of the pie. A company pie needs three eggs, but if you are baking pies for a family that thinks the pumpkin pie season should be a long and merry one you will find that three eggs and two tablespoons of flour will make two very good pies of firm texture.

MINERALS NEEDED BY FARM ANIMALS

The patriarch Moses knew whereof he spoke when he said that "the blood of the flesh is in the blood" that vital, cleansing stream which transports nutrients to the body cells, tissues and organs and carries away poisonous waste. Water, a compound of hydrogen and oxygen, preponderates in food and in the body structure. Blood is 90 per cent water living none is half water, and the whole animal body is two-thirds water. The rest may be reduced to dust, or to a handful of ashes if burned. The ash contains the important minerals which are essential to life. They are chiefly calcium, phosphorus, magnesium, sodium, potassium, iron, sulphur, chlorine and iodine. Inorganic salts of these elements are carried by the blood, and the invigorating properties of the blood may be impaired by an unusual supply of some of these minerals. The food ration of the animal is deficient in them.

Functions of Minerals

Calcium and phosphorus are needed in considerable quantities for bone building. The metabolism of fat and carbohydrates is dependent on phosphorus, the substance in which most soil, and consequently the crops grown thereon, are deficient. Chlorine goes to make hydrochloric acid in gastric juice. Lack of iron in the blood results in anaemia, a disease so prevalent in young pigs, while lack of iodine is often a cause of hairlessness in these, galls of calves and lambs, and joint-ill of foals. All the minerals noted are essential to animal health and productivity, though the functions of some are imperfectly understood as yet. Other symptoms of mineral deficiency are rickets, joint and bone malformations, sterility, loss of appetite, depraved appetite and unthriftiness generally.

Mineral Sales Control

Since investigations have disclosed a serious mineral deficiency in many Canadian soils and crops and the need for a mineral supplement to the animal ration, many a mineral mixture has appeared on the market. Too many of them, says B. Leslie Emslie, are unbalanced, lack some of the essential ingredients and are a money making enterprise for the seller only. It would be better to have the worthless product the more extravagant are the claims made for it, such as that it will end the belly-ache "and thousand natural shocks that flesh is heir to". That the farmer must not be exploited in this line is the decision reached by the Department of Agriculture in Ottawa, and the regulations in the revised Feeding Stuffs Act, drawn up by W. R. White, Chief of the Feeds Division, required the registration of all mineral supplements offered for sale in Canada and a guarantee of their constituents in minimum and maximum percentages. This legislation is now enacted and became effective on October 1. This new measure of governmental parental control will achieve its purpose fully only with the cooperation of the farmer who is urged to protect himself by insisting on seeing the guarantee before buying a mineral supplement and making sure that it is the product of a reputable manufacturer.

TURKEYS, THEIR CARE AND MANAGEMENT

Turkeys intended for breeding stock should be selected early in the autumn before fattening for market takes place, and only well-matured birds possessing good constitutions and vigour should be chosen. Good quality of bone is a factor which should not be overlooked in the selection of breeding stock, states A. G. Taylor of the Poultry Division, Experimental Farms Branch, Department of Agriculture, in the revised edition of the bulletin "Turkeys and Their Management," which has just been issued by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. It is not necessary that the largest birds be chosen, but the small ones should not be retained as breeders. Every precaution should be taken to secure birds that are free from disease and males that are unrelated to the females. A good start may be made in turkey raising with one male and four females. The number of females may be increased to ten or twelve, provided that the male bird is a vigorous one.

Breeding-turkeys should not be confined to houses during the winter months, but allowed to roam at will during the day. The only shelter required at night is a straw-barn or closed-in shed. They should not be kept in a draughty place, but any building that will provide shelter from wind and rain or snow is suitable. Turkeys should never be housed with hens or in heated houses, because colds which later develop into roup are almost sure to follow. During the winter months, the breeding-turkeys should receive only limited rations, as the turkeys have a tendency to become over-fat if well fed. Hard grain should be given in preference to mash or ground grains. Equal parts of oats, barley, wheat and buckwheat are quite suitable during the cold months, but when the weather moderates in spring, the buckwheat should be discontinued.

The bulletin contains full information on all branches of turkey breeding and may be obtained free on request from the Publicity and Extension Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

which, if neglected, may cause a considerable amount of discomfort; whereas, if attended to, they go far to make for comfort. One of these is the question of keeping the feet dry. If we allow our feet to become wet and then sit at our desks at work, the chilling of the feet, while the rest of the body is warm, for some reason, predisposes to colds in the head. In order to avoid head colds which are such a nuisance and which, sometimes, lead to serious trouble, the feet should be kept dry and warm.

It is much more sensible to buy a pair of rubbers than to spend money on doctor's bills. It is much better to take an extra minute or two to put on a pair of rubbers than it is to spend a day or two in bed as a result of having got his feet wet.

It is not always possible for us to avoid wet feet; sometimes the rain is unexpected and we are caught un-awares. In such cases, shoes and stockings should be changed without delay, and the feet given a good brisk rub with a rough towel.

Clothes should be worn according to the thermometer. In winter, shoes should have thick soles, or light shoes should be worn under over-shoes. In some cases certain people require heavier foot clothing than others in order to keep the feet warm. This is something which we must learn from our own experience and by which we must be guided.

Parents will find that they will accomplish something worth while in preventing colds if they make sure that their children's feet are kept dry and warm during the fall, winter and spring seasons. It requires a little preparation in the way of providing rubbers and over-shoes, and, when they are provided, it needs some supervision to see that they are worn, but the effort will be well repaid in greater freedom from this winter nuisance and danger.

Over $40,000,000 worth of Western Farm Products poured into the East last year

In steady work, the industrial employee maintains a high standard of living. His appetite for Prairie Province foodstuffs is insatiable. He and his family are one of the reasons why over $40,000,000 worth of Western farm products found a market in the East last year.

Over $40,000,000.00 is a lot of money; it's a sum that means much to the Western producer, collectively and individually. It went, generously, to every type of farmer.

For instance, those specializing in live stock, took in over $15,000,000.00 for 127,000 tons of fresh and cured dressed meat, 175,705 head of cattle, 21,144 calves and 41,557 hogs shipped to the East. Nearly 10,000 tons of butter brought in $4,500,000.00 more, while grains, poultry, eggs, honey and other commodities accounted for an additional aggregate of well over $20,000,000.00.

That is why a prosperous industrial East means a prosperous agricultural West; for more and busier Eastern workers mean a greater demand on their Western commissary. Your purchase of a Made-in-Canada car helps towards this end.

There are 18,000 workers in Canada's automobile plants, and 15,000 employed in the 202 parts manufacturers' plants. An average of four to a family means over 150,000 people whose prosperity depends in whole or in part on the activities of the motor car builders. Add as well, the employees of railways who live by traffic and you have a busy cross-section of Eastern Canada—a group of people who contributed much of the $40,000,000 spent last year for Western farm products.

For statistical and further information about this industry, write to Automobile Industries, 1000 Lansden Building, Toronto.

LET US FORGET!

Poignant reminder of those precious days of glory and of grieving. Poppy Day once more recurs to prompt the citizens of this country in the duties they have inherited from the past generation. To Canadian Youth in this year of grace, the deep-red petals of the Poppy may not carry the same significance they bore to the youth of twenty years ago. The symbolism of sacrifice with which the Poppy has become charged is something to which the present generation succeeds only through the wistful memories of the aging men who fought. Their country's battles, who suffered privations, endured long agonies and finally triumphed amid surroundings carpeted with poppies.

To wear this humble emblem on Poppy Day is to proclaim that amid all the jangling confusion through which this country is striving valiantly to penetrate, the heart and mind are nevertheless attuned to a sense of homage due to those men whose peace inspired 600,000 Canadians to offer themselves for service between 1914 and 1918; of which number more than 60,000 found graves in France and Belgium. It is over these graves that the Poppy blooms in perennial bloom.

The numbered dead were not strangers. They were young Canadians, some of them well known in this community, filled even as the youth of today is filled, with the joy of living. So also were the 170,000 men who in 1937 bear upon their bodies the marks and scars of war; the disabled ex-service men who suffered disablement on behalf of Canada.

To manifest that proud recognition of their place in this country, to mark that tribute which is their due, Poppy Day has been set aside in order that all may join in recalling the Great Sorrow. The blood emblems distributed throughout Canada by the Canadian Legion's vast volunteer organization are the product of disabled veterans, men striving to maintain themselves in the Veterans Industries administered by the Dominion Government. To purchase a Poppy is a small thing. For every citizen to do so is a big thing.

TO REMIND THE CHILDREN

Poppy day is here again. November 11th, is a day when we remember the soldiers who fought in the Great War 1914-18.

The Poppy, which is used at this time, makes us remember those who died for Right, for King and Country. Its red colour reminds us of the blood they shed. Its beauty tells us how fine they were. But just to remember and honour them is not enough.

What more is there to do? By doing they kept us safe and every one should do his or her part to help keep others safe. What things were kept safe. Freedom, Justice, Right or Might. For these things they died.

How may we today show our appreciation for what they did? Remember the dead by helping the living. Some who did not die, but were injured. Let every boy and girl wear a Poppy for REMEMBRANCE and put something in the collection boxes to go towards helping those of our soldiers who find it hard to help themselves. Those soldiers who shed the honour of our country and her people. We today must uphold our honour by seeing that what was promised to them is done. No one who served their Country well should be in need.

The Poppy emblem which you will wear represents the Father's Poppy. Over there on the battlefields it grows in great numbers. It is planted in the cemeteries on the graves of our dead heroes. The Poppy used on Poppy Day is made by disabled soldiers. This gives them work that they can do. So the more people who wear a Father's Poppy, the more they are used, the more work there is for crippled soldiers.

Always be proud to wear a Poppy for Remembrance.

UNANSWERED QUESTIONS

So many people have been discussing economic topics in the past few years that almost everybody has an opinion on almost every subject affecting the general welfare. We all realize now, what not all of us did before, that conditions which impair the incomes or depress the investments of the people affect the incomes and the investments of the rest of us. And, contrariwise, whatever improves the economic condition of large groups or numbers of people works out, in the long run, for the benefit of everybody.

So far almost everybody is in agreement. Where we disagree, often violently, is on the methods to be employed to equalize economic conditions and make everybody prosperous. If that can be done, all agree, America will be in reality what we are all fond of saying that it is, the greatest country in the world. But how are we going to do it? Has any better way been found yet than to remove every obstacle that tends to impair any person's opportunity to make the most of his own life, within the limits of his own ability? Or is it the duty of the social order, the Government or anybody else, to give preference to one class or group over another? Should we make it easier for the less able, harder for the able, to enjoy the comforts of life? Or should we spur the lazy members of the social organization by withholding benefits which they are willing to accept rather than to earn them?

Paved Highways Boon to Alberta

Keeping an eye on the tourist traffic, the province of New Brunswick has adopted the slogan, "paved highways for our province."

Now that Alberta is launching out on a hard surfacing program, it is interesting to note what steps are being taken in other provinces. In practically every one plans are being made or work has been undertaken with a view to establishing a system of paved highways. Some have extensively paved highway systems already.

Paved highways are an asset to a province, attracting tourist trade and improving business as a result. Dirt roads are not exactly a liability but it is a recognized fact that they present added dangers to motorists. Dust nuisance and flying stones are among the results of dirt roads. Many an accident has been caused just by a flying piece of stone distracting a driver's attention.

Alberta, with 110 miles of the first stage of hard surfacing completed this year, is all set for finishing touches to be put to an extensive mileage early next year. Officials of the Alberta Motor Association state this should be given the attention of the government just as soon as the construction season opens, so that the work will be largely completed when the tourist season reaches its peak.

Engine Lubrication

THAT "KNOWS ITS BEARINGS"!

Lubricating oil doesn't get "lost" or "debauched" from its duty in the "Caterpillar" engine!

The double-pump, gear-driven pressure lubrication system leaves nothing to guess-work—nothing to chance. One pump forces oil under pressure through the drilled oilpass and crankshaft, assuring complete and constant lubrication of these assemblies. Oil thrown out around bearing edges sprays the cylinder walls, piston pins and valve-lifter guides. Even the valve-rocker shafts and push-rod cups are fed oil under pressure!

The other pump constantly returns surplus oil from the front of the engine to the main pump. Thus, the system functions dependably whether the tractor is pulling its big loads uphill, downhill or around steep side-hills!

This full pressure lubrication system is vital for long engine life under the continuous heavy loads a track-type tractor must expect to pull.

Ask us for other reasons why "Caterpillar" Track-type Tractors last longer, do more work and cost less to run. Diesel, distillate and gasoline models.

The Legion Notice Board

We are happy to announce that entries for the Amateur Hour on Armistice Day are coming in very well.

In a previous notice we announced that all who required a piano accompaniment should get in touch with Mrs. Geo. Glass and we now find that this has to be modified. Mrs. Glass will still act officially at the piano and all who can do so are requested to avail themselves of her service. However, we find that this arrangement can not always be followed and any contestant is at liberty to arrange for their own piano accompaniment with whoever they wish. We wish to make it clear however, that the privilege of a complimentary ticket can be extended to contestants only.

As this is the first time we have sponsored anything in the nature of an Amateur Hour we have to meet the various points of difficulty as they crop up and we are endeavouring to iron out all rough places as we go along. There is still room for a few more entries and we would urge all who are hesitating to get in their entry at once.

MODERN LUXURY FOR "HEAD-END" PASSENGERS

MEMBERS of the Board of Directors and officers of the Canadian National Railways are seen in the above photograph, sampling the comfort of the first of fifty new air-conditioned coaches soon to go in service on regular trains. At the front on the left side of the aisle is R. C. Vaughan, Vice-President in charge of Purchases, Stores and Steamships. Behind him sit W. A. Kingland, Toronto, Vice-President, Central Region; R. J. Moffat, Bradwell, Sask., Director, and F. L. C. Bond, Toronto, General Manager, Central Region. On the right, according to rows, are: Wilfrid Gagnon, Director, Montreal; John Roberts, Chief of Motive Power and Car Equipment; C. W. Johnston, General Passenger Traffic Manager, and Arthur D. Neale, Vice-President, Canadian Car and Foundry Company Limited, builders of the new coaches.

Extending the latest improvements in modern railway practice to the "head-end" of the train, the fifty coaches are equipped with air-conditioning, and the 64 seats with resilient Dunlopillo cushioning, are on swivels and adjustable to three positions. Aluminum parcel racks and individual shadowless and glareless lights give the cars a smart interior appearance and add to the sense of luxury.

SECOND INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS: Slim Loyale is paroled from prison after serving 18 months for a crime he did not commit. He returns to his Circle 1 ranch to find his father dead and sinister forces at work, trying to make him violate his parole so that he can again be railroaded to prison.

He had never seriously diagnosed his feelings toward Mona. He had never thought of her in terms of love. In fact, the issue of loving and being loved by the same had never consciously entered his life.

He knew that there had been a deep elemental bond between his father and himself. But he had been content merely to bask in the sun- shine of his father's presence and to enjoy and value it with a fervency he could not, or would not, analyze. As for Mona, she quieted him, made him feel that the world was complete and good. And he had been content with that.

Now, with his father gone in Slim, and he was almost feverishly he had better ride quietly away and visit Mona in the other time. Then he recalled that she had especially asked him over that night and he had promised. So he straightened his shoulders, set his jaw and went up to the door, knocking firmly.

It was Mona herself who opened the door. And when the warmth of her welcoming smile fell upon Slim, he was glad he had not weakened and ridden away. He caught her outstretched hands and squeezed them. "Like old times, huh, Mona?" he drawled softly.

Mona nodded quickly and linked her arm in his. "This makes me very happy, Slim," she told him. "I really missed you dreadfully. Now listen to me; Leo Brockwell is in the living room. He and Abe Fornachon are talking over a cattle deal. I'm considering selling off a lot of my stock, and Leo and the other are going to buy them.

"I know you don't like Leo, but for my sake, try to get along with him. I don't see why he had to come around tonight, when you and I have so much to talk over; but you don't know what you are doing. They'll take you back to Jarillo.

anxious to reach the warmth of Mona's patient, understanding smile. He wanted to be near her, to look at her and to treasure her wholesome, constructive friendship.

The miles were away swiftly and soon the beckoning lights of the Dot H Dot winked at him through the night. Slim's pulse quickened. Gee, but it was good to be free of the depressing stone walls and the scorching curse of barred cells and windows; to be free to ride through the night again under the stars. And it was good to know that warm welcome, gentle smiles and kindly words were awaiting him beyond those cheery lights.

Suddenly his mood chilled. What was that Dakota had said? Leo Brockwell had been visiting Mona considerably lately. Perhaps he was there now. Somehow Slim could not reconcile himself to the belief that Mona really cared for Leo Brockwell.

Aside from her punctures and her old Mexican housekeeper, Mona lived alone. Doubtless, knowing her as he did, Slim felt that Mona would suffer young Brockwell's presence in silence and affability even though she might despise him.

Well, Slim decided savagely, he'd certainly find out if Mona was more or less distressed by Brockwell's attentions. And if so, he'd soon remove the offending presence from the picture.

Sure enough, when Slim drew up at the ranch house, he found a sad- eyed horse standing at the hitching- rail which ran between the two big sycamores that grew before the verandah. He rolled and lit a cigarette using the light of the flaring match to scan the shoulder of the strange horse. The brand was a Half Diamond B. Yes, Leo Brockwell was on hand.

For a moment Slim hesitated. He doubted his ability to face Leo Brockwell without trouble starting. Well he knew, too, despite his efforts of self-control, that if Leo turned those meers loose he would not be able to restrain himself.

The thought came that perhaps here he is, and we've got to make the best of it. Promise?"

Slim nodded. "If there's an argument, it'll be him who starts it, not me."

In the living room, Leo Brockwell and Abe Fornachon, Mona's foreman, were seated at the center table arguing noisily over some tally sheets. Evidently Mona had said nothing to young Brockwell about Slim coming to visit her. At sight of Slim, Leo came to his feet rather quickly, a half-formed snarl twisting his dark features, still swollen and bruised from the weight of Dakota Blue's fist.

Mona spoke quickly. "Don't mind us. You two go on talking business. Slim and I just want to sit in the corner and have a quiet visit."

Abe Fornachon stood up and held out his hand. "Hello, Slim," he stated. "Glad to see you back."

Slim shook the proffered hand. "Glad to be back, Abe. How's tricks?"

Fornachon grunted. "Oh, just fair." The foreman was a big, gaunt fellow, with rock-hard features and deep, shadowy, unreadable eyes. He sat down and bent over his figures. Slim led Mona over to a far corner and drew up chairs. "Sit down," he drawled softly. "I just want to look at you for an hour steady."

Mona's eyes glowed and she laughed gently. "Silly. Tell me everything, Leo. Brockwell's ears were evidently keen, for he turned in his chair. That's right, Loyale," he sneered.

PICOBAC

PIPE TOBACCO
FOR A MILD, COOL SMOKE

"Tell her everything. Tell her how it feels to be a convict with a number on your back. Tell her how it feels to walk look-step in a line of other crooks. Tell her—"

A red haze seemed to gather in front of Slim's eyes. He whipped to his feet and glided across the room. Mona, her face gone white, caught at his arm, but he pulled away from her. Beside Leo Brockwell's snarl Slim halted, rocking slightly on his toes. "Yuh dirty, cowardly whelp!" he rapped hoarsely.

"Think yuh can pull that stuff an' get away with it, do yuh, knowin' I got a parole hangin' over my head that I don't dare break? Well yuh've made a mistake tonight. If yuh notice, I ain't packin' no guns. But I got my fists an' yore sure gonna know the feel of 'em. Get on yore feet!"

Leo Brockwell stood up, his right hand dropping toward his belt. "Keep yore fists to yoreself, Loyale," he snarled. "Yore nothin' but a dam convict out on parole, an' yuh ain't got no rights or decent folks. Try yuh best to get away with it. An' I'll shore shoot yuh like a account for it."

Slim grew very still and white and deadly. The hate he felt for this smart, sneering fellow nearly choked him. His breath rattled in his throat. Then he swung.

That momentary pause that had fallen on the heels of young Brockwell's words had been swiftly lowered Brockwell's guard. For a moment he thought that Slim was going to take his scathing remarks without retaliation. In this he erred considerably. He saw Slim's sudden lurching of one shoulder and knew, too late, that a punch was coming. He tried to duck, at the same time dragging at his gun. Slim's fist, swung with all the pent-up rage and sense of unfairness which choked him, landed a little high on Brockwell's jaw. But it had plenty of impetus and power behind it. For the second time that day, Brockwell knew how it felt to be beaten to the floor by the impact of a human fist.

He was not knocked out, but he fell on his right side, with the hand that grabbed for his gun momentarily smothered between his body and the floor. Before he could free it, Slim literally diving over the upset chair, landed on him.

Slim wasted no time. All the bitterness, all the galling shame and indignation he had known through those long months of incarceration in the Jarillo Penitentiary now found outlet. He smashed at Brockwell again and again.

Brockwell, trying frantically to do two things at once, namely, free his gun and protect himself from Slim's barrage of punches, rolled his head in the wrong direction. The point of his jaw connected squarely with Slim's fist, and he went limp.

Slim was past all realization of the fact that Brockwell was unconscious. He only knew that he had this hated fellow where he wanted him, and that a keen, savage joy flooded him every time his flailing fists found their mark.

He was insensible to the fact that Mona was tugging and crying at him. And even Abe Fornachon, at the frantic beck of Mona, grabbed Slim by the shoulders and dragged him from his prey, Slim still fouling.

But the foreman was powerful. Between him and Mona, they finally got Slim into a chair, where Mona retained him by the simple method of sitting on his lap and wrapping both arms around his neck, at the same time pleading with tearful words.

"Slim!" she cried. "Slim, you don't know what you are doing. They'll take you back—back to Jarillo!"

Abe Fornachon who had been leaning over Leo Brockwell, securing his guns, now looked up. There was a queer pain in Abe's eyes as he watched Mona.

"Not this time they won't Miss Mona," he said quietly. "Remember, if anybody goes askin' questions, it's me who hit Brockwell—not Slim."

These words, more than anything else, served to quiet Slim. Suddenly

CHEESE FOR THE PARTY

Particularly appropriate on the anniversary of National Cheese Week and the beginning of the fall and winter party-giving season, the following recipes suggested by the Milk Utilization Service, Dairy and Cold Storage Branch, Dominion Department of Agriculture, may be found useful in serving cheese in the attractive ways described.

Cheese Squares

Cut fruit bread in squares (about 1 1/2 inches). Blend together grated cheddar cheese with sufficient butter to make a soft mixture. Spread the four sides and the top of the bread squares with the cheese mixture. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a hot oven or under broiler until cheese begins to brown. Serve hot.

Cheese Muffins

- 2 cups flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup grated cheese
- 2 tablespoons butter, melted
- 1 egg
- 1 cup milk

Mix and sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add grated cheese. Mix in milk and beaten egg, then add butter. Fill tiny buttered muffin tins about one-third full of batter. On this drop a little marmalade or jelly. Cover with batter filling tins about two-thirds full. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 15 minutes. Serve hot.

Cheese Sandwiches

Cut bread three-quarters inch thick into small squares or rounds. Butter and pile with cream cheese mixed with salad dressing. Sprinkle with finely chopped nuts, olives, green pepper, pimento or water-cress.

Combine on 3-ounce package cream cheese with 2 cups minced ham and 1/2 cup chopped water-cress. Add salad dressing to moisten. Spread generously on whole wheat bread. Cut in fingers.

The hard-strung tauntment went out of him and he sagged wearily. "I'm sorry Mona," he panted. "I reckon I shouldn't have paid no attention to him. But I'm all raw inside, and that damn drives me loco! Abe, I'm shore stinkin' out who my friends are. However, I can't let yuh take the blame on yore shoulders."

"Yuh shut up an' be good," growled Abe gruffly. "Brockwell had it comin' to him. Was I in yore place, I'd a ben just as red-eyed."

With none too gentle power, Abe dragged Leo Brockwell erect and slammed him into a chair. Leo's eyes were glassy and his head rolling, but consciousness was returning. Slowly the light of complete comprehension showed in his eyes, and his bruised, swollen face twisted into a mask of hatred and rage.

The World of Wheat

By H. G. L. Strange,
Director, Research Department,
Searle Grain Company, Ltd.

"Where can I get some first-generation Red Bobs seed?" requested a farmer.

"There is no such thing as first-generation Red Bobs," was the answer, "because our Registered varieties have generations, and there is no Registered seed of Red Bobs yet. You can, however, obtain Certified Red Bobs which is quite high class material."

Registered seed has a pedigree continued year by year, and each multiplication becomes a lower generation than the previous one.

Certified seed does not have a recorded pedigree, although it is field inspected and guaranteed to be true-to-variety just the same as Registered, but Certified seed is of a somewhat lower standard. It will be remembered that with Registered seed one off-type in 10,000 is permitted in the fields. With Certified seed one off-type in 1,000 is allowed.

The standards for germination, content of weed seeds and of other grains, and appearance, are only slightly lower for Certified seed, than the standards for Registered seed.

Red Bobs, Reward, Garnet and Thatcher, Apex and Renown, are as yet only Certified varieties. Some day they will be Registered varieties. Certified seed, however, sealed in the sack, is the next best to Registered, and can be purchased with the utmost confidence.

Following factors have tended to raise price—Sharp demands for higher quality wheats for immediate delivery—Good rain urgently needed in Australia—French Cabinet rejects foreign exchange control—Germany must import considerable grain—U.S. private and government spring wheat estimates slightly reduced—Expect reduction Manchurian wheat estimate—French Moroccan olive crop suffers from adverse weather.

Following factors have tended to lower price—Rainfall deters deterioration, in Argentina crops—Good broad-grain harvest in Finland—Favorable increases wheat export premium—Large Canadian fruit crops—Expect better sesame production than last year in Palestine—Coffee crops in Haiti promise good yields.

WAINWRIGHT STAR

This Week in Washington

WASHINGTON.—As the details of the administration's proposed farm program for 1938 are learned, something like a complete picture begins to emerge. It is a picture which shows, for the first time in American history, the great majority of the farmers banded together as a single economic unit.

That is the clear purpose which the Administration has in mind. The manner in which farmers are being organized for participation in the new A.A.A. activities bespeaks a new relationship for farmers among themselves, with the Government, and in their relation to the nation as a whole.

Under the 1938 Agricultural Conservation program now being perfected, inducement will be held out for more farmers to participate than at any previous time. Every farmer who participates will automatically become a member of his "County Agricultural Conservation Association." These county associations will be tied together through state, regional and National setups.

Farmers United As Never Before.—This is calculated to create a farmer unity which goes far beyond anything which has ever been attempted in a democracy. If carried through, it will go much farther toward bringing about a community of interest among all farmers, of all sections, than any of the existing farm organizations ever dreamed of doing. It will tend to a solidarity exceeding that of any labor organization. It will, in effect, create an agrarian democracy inside of the national democracy, able to swing Presidential elections and dictate national policies, once the farmers are all brought into line.

There is a difference of opinion in Washington as to whether, through this tie-up, the Federal Government will control the farmers or the farmers will control the Federal Government, so far as agriculture is concerned. Spokesmen for the farmers who have been participating in the conference here speak confidently of the new plan as "our program." Certainly a great deal of political power will flow through the lines it is planned to set up, but it may flow in both directions. Certainly nobody can safely say that anybody controls that power now, nor is it likely that the power which the plan will confer upon farmers as a whole will die with the passing of any person or any political party. The participating farmers represent divergent political and other beliefs. But in meeting together and working together towards a common goal, they are becoming joined together through their "pocket nerves" in their power and want to retain it.

The farmers themselves help to formulate and administer their program. They also help to meet the costs. First, the program has been worked out by the A.A.A. officials in Washington in consultation with state conservation representatives, named by the farmers of their districts. Next, the program is applied by county committees of farmers. These county committees, although chosen by farmers themselves, guided by the National, regional and state programs, have the power to say how the program shall be applied to any individual farmer, and to determine the extent of compliance by any individual farmer. The extent of each farmer's compliance determines the size of his benefit payments. If he is not satisfied, he may appeal to the state committee, and from the committee, if still unsatisfied, he may go to the regional director, whose decision is final.

Not the least important of the whole plan is the regional set-up, which is in line with the proposal made by the President several years ago, that the United States was too large and its regions too diverse in interests, to be administered from Washington alone, while the state units are not set up on any economic plan. He suggested that the nation should be divided into a number of administrative regions, each with its sub-White House, as it were, with the elimination of state lines as far as possible. A similar thought prevails in the plan for "seven T.V.A.'s" for the administration of the national power program. It is understood here that the administrative regions provided for in the new farm plan coincide with those which the President believes should be established in the power matter and in other administrative plans.

The motives for farmer participation in the new plan are clear enough. First, there are the benefit payments for soil conservation, which is a term which can be stretched to cover many kinds of regulation of production. These benefits run to $200 or $300 a year for a quarter-section farm. A second reason for farmer participation is the expectation, if not the guarantee, of better prices for farm products. And a third reason is the conservation of the soil of his farm.

The program is to be justified to the public as promising a continuing and adequate supply, at fair and stable prices, of food for everybody, tobacco and fibers for industry, while at the same time conserving the nation's most precious resource, the soil, and making the farmers more contented and more profitable as customers for the products of industry.

While the funds for benefit payments are to come out of the Congressional appropriations under the Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act, up to five hundred million dollars a year, the costs of local administration of the organization set-up will be pro-rated among the participating farmers.

Observers who accompanied the President on his western trip are in agreement in reporting the farmers and the population generally of that Northwest as grateful for Government funds already distributed among them, and eager to get more.
